

ABSTRACT

A method for estimating a remaining lifetime of a part in a piece of semiconductor fabrication equipment comprises the steps of: selecting a plurality of factors relevant to the remaining lifetime of the part, and estimating the remaining lifetime of the part by a fuzzy
5 inference. The plurality of factors include a number of semiconductor wafers that have been processed by the piece of semiconductor fabrication equipment since the part was installed in the piece of equipment.